A GUIDE TO THE STATISTICS:

Player statistics featured on the portrait stickers refer to a player's total Barclays Premier League appearances until the end of the 2012/13 season. Players who have never played in the Barclays Premier League have different categories, which refer to their performance in other leagues.

Player statistics featured beneath the portrait sticker boxes refer to Barclays Premier League appearances during the 2012/13 season only. Players who did not appear in the Barclays Premier League last season have different categories, which refer to their performance in other leagues. Where a player has appeared in a league where the season is played over a single calendar year, the statistics will refer to the player's involvement from January to December of the year given.

Player biographical details refer to a player's country of birth.

This may differ from a player's nationality and the country they represent, which is indicated by the national flag graphic.

Manager's previous clubs listed refer to first team posts only and do not include caretaker manager roles.

Welcome to the official Barclays Premier League sticker collection from Topps, your ultimate guide to the 2013/14 season.

The popularity of the Barclays Premier League continues to grow. Intense competition, pulsating action and passionate supporters all contribute to what makes the Barclays Premier League a fantastic football competition.

Last season saw record-high attendances around the grounds with 13.6 million supporters coming through the turnstiles and, with over 804 million fans from 212 territories watching on TV, the Barclays Premier League leads the way as the world's most popular domestic football competition.

The league continues to attract players from all over the world and last summer's transfer window saw the arrival of some top-class performers including Mesut Ozil, Samuel Eto'o, Christian Eriksen and Fernandinho. Alongside extremely talented young English starlets making a big impact, like Ross Barkley, Luke Shaw, Andros Townsend and Nathan Redmond, the Barclays Premier League is a showcase for the best of all talent.

I would like to take the opportunity to welcome Cardiff City into the Barclays Premier League for the first time – they are the 46th club to compete in the Premier League since it was formed in 1992/93. Congratulations to Hull City and Crystal Palace on their return to the competition and I wish all 20 clubs, their respective managers, players, and of course you the fans, the very best of luck for what we all hope will be a thrilling season ahead.

As the season continues and we have clubs chasing the title, competing for European places, and battling to stay in the Premier League, you can keep up with all the action in the official Barclays Premier League sticker collection from Topps.
